

MARKET PLATE

BY CAROLINE CHAMBERS

Serves 4

Cook time: 1 hour

lemon-dill cauliflower and chickpeas

- 1 (15-ounce) can chickpeas
- 1 large head of cauliflower
- 1/4 cup extra-virgin olive oil
- 1 tablespoon Dijon mustard
- Kosher salt and freshly ground black pepper
- 1/2 teaspoon garlic powder
- 1 large lemon, preferably organic, zested then halved
- 1 (0.5-ounce) container fresh dill (about 1/2 cup packed)

Preheat oven to 425°F. Line a large baking sheet with parchment paper.

On top of the parchment paper, put down a double layer of paper towels or (what I use) a clean thick dish cloth. Drain and rinse 1 (15-ounce) can chickpeas and put the chickpeas on the cloth. Use another cloth to pat the chickpeas dry then remove the cloths, shaking the dried chickpeas onto the dry parchment paper. Many chickpea skins will fall off — that's fine, leave them on the parchment!

I have a very specific way that I like to cut cauliflower. First, trim off the leaves and the very bottom of the cauliflower stem. Now slice it in half, through the stem. Place the two halves cut-side down on a cutting board, then slice it into 1/2-inch thick pieces. Cut or pull apart the individual florets.

Add the cauliflower florets to the sheet pan with the chickpeas along with 1/4 cup extra-virgin olive oil, 1 tablespoon Dijon mustard, 1 1/2 teaspoons kosher salt, several grinds of pepper, 1/2 teaspoon garlic powder, the zest of 1 lemon, and the juice of 1/2 that lemon. Get in there with your hands to make sure that everything — the Dijon, especially! — gets evenly distributed.

Roast for 30 minutes. Stir. Roast for 15 to 25 more minutes, until really, really golden and tender. The chickpeas should be very crunchy, and no hard cauliflower here! We want the cauliflower almost squishy — it should taste sweet and caramelized and like the best thing you've ever eaten, none of that sulfuric raw cauliflower taste.

While the veggies are roasting, finely chop 0.5 ounce of dill. Squeeze the juice from the remaining 1/2 lemon over top, add the dill, give it all a stir, and enjoy!

beets with goat cheese, pistachios, and chives

- 2 (8-ounce) packages store-bought cooked beets (these are my fave but any “cooked” or “ready-to-eat” beets work — see notes for how to roast your own, if you can’t find any!), knobby bits cut off, quartered
- 1 tablespoon balsamic vinegar
- 1 tablespoon extra-virgin olive oil
- Kosher salt and freshly ground pepper
- 2 ounces goat cheese, crumbled (or use all 4 ounces if your crew loves cheese!)
- 1/4 cup toasted pistachios* (see below the recipe for how to toast raw pistachios if that’s all you can find — or just use pecans or use extra Brown Butter Crunch from the sweet potatoes!)
- 3 tablespoons minced chives

Cut any rough, knobby bits off of 2 (8-ounce) packages worth of cooked beets, quarter the beets, and add them to a bowl. Toss with 1 tablespoon balsamic vinegar, 1 tablespoon extra-virgin olive oil, a big pinch of kosher salt, and one grind of pepper.

Crumble 2 ounces goat cheese over top. Sprinkle 1/4 cup toasted pistachios and 3 tablespoons minced chives on top. Enjoy!

- Toss in a big handful of arugula to turn this into a leafy green salad.
- If you can only find/already have raw pistachios (or whatever nut), toast them in a skillet over medium-high heat in a little drizzle of olive oil until golden-brown, then stir in a pinch of flaky salt. So delicious.

sweet potatoes with chive yogurt and brown butter crunch

- 2 medium (about 8-ounce) sweet potatoes, scrubbed clean and halved
- Extra-virgin olive oil
- Kosher salt
- 1 cup whole milk yogurt (Greek is fine, but normal whole milk is better because it's less tart!)
- 1/4 cup chives
- 1/2 teaspoon garlic powder, divided
- 1 lemon, cut in half
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 1 cup chopped pecans (or pistachios or any nut you have)
- 1 big shake (1/8 teaspoon) ground cumin
- 1 tiny shake of cayenne pepper
- Big drizzle (about 2 teaspoons) honey

Preheat oven to 425°F. Line a small (or large if it's all you have) baking sheet with parchment paper.

Cut 2 sweet potatoes in half, coat them with a big glug of extra-virgin olive oil and sprinkle with kosher salt. Place them face down on the prepared baking sheet.

Roast for 45 minutes, checking on them after 30 minutes. They should be VERY squishy when you poke their skins!

Meanwhile, in a blender or small food processor, blend 1 cup whole milk yogurt, 1/4 cup chives, 1/4 teaspoon garlic powder, a big pinch of kosher salt, and the juice of 1/2 lemon. Blend until mostly smooth but with some chive flecks. Taste and add more lemon juice or salt as needed.

And now make the Brown Butter Crunch! In a medium skillet, melt 1 tablespoon butter over medium-high heat. Add 1 cup chopped pecans and stir until very toasty, 3-5 minutes. Stir in 1/4 teaspoon garlic powder, a big shake (1/8 teaspoon) cumin, a tiny pinch of cayenne, a big pinch of salt (I use flaky salt here) and cook until the spices coat the nuts, about 10 seconds. Turn off the heat and stir in 2 teaspoons honey.

Top the sweet potatoes with a big ole dollop of chive yogurt and a big sprinkle of Brown Butter Crunch and dig in immediately!